News of the Day on the Great White Way

By Louis Le Brun

If you were a boy, and had good red gold in your veins, you would be thrilled to the very depths of your gizzard by the remarkable adventures and hair-brained escapades of Young King Roderic, Young Cap Collier, Chick, and Tooty, the tale of the exploits of the great Nick Carter, and other boy detectives. If you were not familiar with the literature, then all I have to say is that I feel sorry for you. "The Dummy," described as a comedy in four acts, by Harvey J. O'Higgins and Harriet Ford, produced at the Hudson Theatre, has for plot and action the exploits of a boy detective who is somewhat reminiscent of the heroes of our youth, although the story lacks the deadly seriousness and the melodramatic situation of a Nick Carter tale. Many readers have made the acquaintance of Detective Barney Cook, the juvenile sleuth, through the medium of Mr. O'Higgins's short stories, and will welcome his transition to the stage. Mr. O'Higgins collaborated with Miss Ford in the writing of the highly successful play, "The Circle Case," which was popularized by the personality of Detective Burns, and "The Dummy" promises a readable continuation of this literary partnership. Barney is a bright messenger boy who secures employment with a celebrated private detective. It is a kidnapping case which occupies the attention of Barney and his chief in "The Dummy." The comedy gets its title from the fact that Barney is a well-witted dead-end-dumb boy, and manages to get into the house where the little girl victim is hidden for only reason for the kidnapping. The Dummy is permitted to wander about at will, and overhears much of the conversation of the plotters, but spouts it all by falling asleep and muttering, "I'm a detective!" It is a difficult situation, but Barney wriggles out of it quite as effectively as Patsy or Young King Roderic could have done, and eventually rescues the maiden in distress and collects the $10,000 reward offered for her safe return to her grief-stricken father.

"Well, Barney," says the chief to his young "detective," "what is the first thing you are going to do with all that money when you get it?" Nick Carter himself couldn't have done better, and his chief is contained in the reply of Barney, "Count it!"

Barney, O'Higgins, the father of "Barney," is a native of London, Canada, was educated at the University of Toronto, and is still a sunny side of forty. Miss Ford brings to the literary partnership a keen knowledge of dramatic values.

I am not enough of an ornithologist to be able to state whether or not canary birds are usually red in color, but I do know that they are not. With the canary that comes in bottles I am more familiar, but I do know that the canary-bird that is referred to in "The Red Canary," a musical comedy recently staged at the Lyric, Red canaries may be uncommon, but "The Red Canary" is decidedly common. All of the state stuff used in all the musical comedies produced in the last generation seems to have been used in the connection of "The Red Canary." Much of the so-called music is a libel on the feathered songster which figures in the title, and might be the basis of an action brought by the Audubon Society for the Protection of the Little Birds.

The humor is at times as soot as to verge on vulgarity, and never hilariously funny. The book is a bit silly and the story far-fetched and ridiculous. With the exception of T. Roy Barnes and one or two others, the members of the company fail to grasp the few opportunities for comedy and melody offered them. Otherwise, understand me, "The Red Canary" is all right and a strictly A production.

That the G. T. P. intends to get a large share of Panama Pacific expedition traffic is clearly evidenced by the tremendous efforts being made to put its new line between here and the coast as good a condition as in rest of the line between here and the coast in as good a condition as the rest of the line, which is being actively engaged as equal to anything on the continent. At present 500 men with steam shovels are working on the line between here and the coast, and Prince George bringing that part of the line up to the G. T. P. standard. It is expected that the end of service will be announced from Edmonton to Prince George and from there to Prince Rupert beginning with the inauguration of the new summer schedule on June 1, with in September the whole line from here to the coast will be able to carry the heaviest passenger trains safely at high speeds. It is also stated that the company will put on at least one through train daily between Edmonton and Calgary this summer, and possibly two, one day and one night train.

The Allan Iron Scandinavian was reported 890 northeast of Cape Race at 6 o'clock this morning. It is due in Quebec at midnight and will leave Montreal Monday night or Tuesday morning.

With the announcement that the C. P. R. will use the big Pacific Express in making Manila a port of call, the rumor from many reliable sources that the big transportation company has an eye on the San Francisco trade as well.

The first move in seeking to tap this new Pacific trade was made by George Bury, vice-president of the company, last fall. At that time Mr. Bury made a trip from San Francisco to Honolulu and thence to the Orient, stopping over several days at each port en route. It was his intention to observe the health of the trade, and behind the move that was given out, which the present announcement in regard to Manila bears out.

While no statement is forthcoming from official circles, it may be taken almost as a foregone conclusion that the C. P. R. will establish a passenger service from Vancouver, Victoria and Seattle to the Golden Gate city at least during the two new Princesses, the Irene and Marjorie, now building in the old country, there appears to be little doubt that the disposition of the Canadian Pacific is to make some provision for a service of this nature.

Julia Marlowe is beginning to resume her interest in the theater, and while she will not act during the engagement of her husband, E. H. Sothern, she will exercise a strong influence in the production of his new play, "Charlemagne." Although she is not permitted to go out freely, she has, nevertheless, turned her New York home into a continuing establishment for the time being, and with a force of wardrobe maids working under her direction, is personally supervising the designing of all the costumes for Justin Huntley McCarthy's play which is to have its first production in Chicago. McCarthy sent to Miss Marlowe a series of photographic reproductions of old paintings dealing with the period in which "Charlemagne" is placed, and from these the actress is drawing her inspiration. The color schemes will be entirely her own.

Sigmund Eleonora Duse is trying to found in Rome a theater which shall, in addition, be a home for the players. My dream is the great actress says, "It is a theatrical home center, where future interpreters of a drama or poem for their task-home that should be a constant source of artistic inspirations. The young actresses should have a secure and comfortable, a theater home, with beautiful books, a flower here and there a plain, where the poet or dramatist will come from time to time and give expression to his fancies before the absolute of dramatic art. The dramatists will have the right to share in what they have created—to live in the midst of its youth, proud to have surrounded them with light and purity and eager to inspire in them the finer ambitions of life and art."

SURPRISING RESULTS FROM CROSSGROWN IN ALBERTA'S NORTHLAND

REPORTS FROM EXPERIMENTAL STATIONS GIVEN

Root Crops Yield 2 1/4 Tons Per Acre Five Hundred Miles North of City

OATS 75 BUSHELS AND WHEAT 45 TO 60 BUSHELS

Good Crops Were Also Grown at Resolution on Great Slave Lake.

Wheat yielding 45 to 60 bushels per acre, oats yielding 75 bushels per acre, canary grass four tons per acre, cabbage and cauliflower fifteen pounds in weight, turnips 2 1/4 tons to the acre, and sugar beets 18 tons to the acre—these are some of the records achieved at the experimental farm station at Fort Vermilion, situated five hundred miles north of Edmonton, on the Peace River.

The report of the operations on the experimental station at Fort Vermilion is contained in the annual report of the Dominion experimental farms for the year 1913, just issued by the department of agriculture at Ottawa. The meteorological observations show that a temperature of 102 degrees was recorded in May, 1912, at Fort Vermilion, while temperatures of 94 were recorded in June and August and 96 in July. The average number of hours of sunshine per day during the whole year was 5.68, the average number of hours of sunshine during May being as high as 8.31, and in June 6.62. The lowest amount of sunshine was in November, when the average was 1.79 per day.

Splendid Crops of Wheat. The report of the experimental station at Fort Vermilion is as follows: The spring of 1912 opened very dry, the snow starting to thaw during the early part of April. Seeding was begun on April 29, but was not general until May 2. May opened very dry and continued so throughout the month, and, as a result, growth was very slow. June was very dry and hot, with only seven-hundredths of an inch of rain during the whole month. This gave the crops a permanent setback, which all the rains of July could not remedy. The crops that were not ploughed under were very light.

The July opening shower and cold, a slight frost occurring on the 10th, the 13th, 14th, and 15th, which did considerable damage. The first part of August was showery, and the ripening period was prolonged. From the 13th to the 24th however, the weather was good, and considerable cutting was done on the experimental fields. It occurred three times towards the end of the month. Notwithstanding, everything on the experimental station was a decided success, the wheat, when threshed, showing a yield of from 45 to 60 bushels per acre. Some of the varieties tested were Red Pile, Marquis, Bishop and Preston. Kubanka, a durum wheat yielded 34 bushels per acre.

Three varieties of oats were grown, the Banner, Tartar King and Improved Ligowo, yielding 60 bushels, 63 bushels 18 pounds, and 72 bushels 32 pounds respectively. Four varieties of barley ranged in yield from 75 bushels 20 pounds to 65 bushels 30 pounds to the acre. Longfellow Red Nose corn gave a yield of 12 to 25 bushels of green fodder per acre.

Big Yields Turnips. Four varieties of turnips gave from 16 tons 1,500 pounds to 21 tons 1,400 pounds per acre; four varieties of canary grass from 10 tons 500 pounds to 15 tons 1,600 pounds; four varieties of carrots from 8 tons 20 pounds to 11 tons 10 pounds; and three varieties of sugar beets from 8 tons 800 lbs. to 18 tons per acre.

Five varieties of potatoes were tried, the Irish Cobbler giving the lowest yield, 84 bushels per acre, and the Cassino No. 1 the highest, 238 bushels per acre.

No alfalfa was under trial this year, all the plots having been ploughed up. The grass, sainfoin, and canary grass gave good crops, the last named at the rate of 4 tons per acre. Timothy, all fescue, ryegrass and sweet fescue were poor, owing to drought in spring.

Vegetables did well, some of the specimens being of record size for the Peace River district; cabbage and cauliflower reached 15 pounds in weight and other sorts in proportion. Various crops successfully in the open comprised asparagus, beans, lettuce, carrots, celery, cucumbers, lettuce, radish, garden peas, parsnips, radish, rhubarb, squash, spinach, and table turnips. Tomatoes were cut down by frost on July 14.

Fruit Trees and Flowers.

Some twenty-nine varieties of flowers were sown in the open and gave a profusion of bloom until the first fall frost, on September 23. Fourteen varieties sown in hotbeds and planted out in May also did excellently.

Of seventy-three varieties of ornamental shrubs and trees the records for the season indicate satisfactory growth and bloom in the great majority of cases. No winter-killing is reported.

In fruits, the cross-bred apple trees and their seedlings made from fair to very good growth, though none fruited this year. Plum trees did not do well. Raspberries and black and red currants all fruited.

At Fort Resolution, reports were also printed from experimental stations as far north as Inuvik, in the Northwest Territories, where it is stated the crops were good, the condition and variety of field and garden crops being a surprise in districts much of the grain sown was eaten by moose, owing to not being sown deeply enough. A band of deer got into the garden and did considerable damage at the mission. Ten varieties of flowers transplanted May 24-29 bloomed from July 31 to August 31. Four varieties of oats ripened from September 6 to 16 and four varieties of wheat were ready to cut on the 14th of the same month. Three varieties of barley were ripe from September 2 to 6.

At Fort Smith the season was a bad one and the results were not so satisfactory. The increase of the land in the crop to the woods is thought to be responsible for the poor results, the woods retaining the moisture and bringing on summer frosts. Oats did well in spite of the season and three varieties yielded well.

MANY HOMESTEADS AVAILABLE ALONG C.N.R. IN ALBERTA

Company About to Issue Pamphlet Giving Full Information to Intending Settlers

In keeping with the campaign to be conducted by the Canadian Northern railway in an endeavor to populate the territory adjacent and tapped by their lines, the company is about to issue a most interesting pamphlet which covers all this territory and gives the location of the various free homesteads, which can be secured in this prairie province.

The following gives an idea of the rich lands available for settlement along C.N.R. line in Alberta:

Calgary Land District—Total number of homesteads, 2,000; number within 12 miles of Calgary, 222; Scollard to Munson, 40.

Grande Prairie Land District—Total number of homesteads, 8,403.

Vermilion District—27.

Lethbridge Land District—Total number of homesteads, 40,339.

Edmonton Land District—Total number of homesteads, 43,592.

Lloydminster to Edmonton, 24; Edmonton to Jasper Park, 204; Peace River, 1,419; Athabasca Beach, 2,223.

Red Deer Land District—2,558; within 12 miles, Donald to Big Valley, 23; Red Deer to Rocky Mountain, 585.

Mr. R. A. Fairbairn, of Fairbairn Farms, New Jersey, has sold to P. L. Ames, of Massachusetts, the ten months' old colt, Fairbairn Footprint, for the sum of $5,000.

He is, however, one of the best bred colts of the breed, having for sire Danure Footprint, champion of the Highland and other shows, and for dam Harrietson Baronesse, champion at the Chicago International, 1912, and deeply enough. A band of deer got into the garden and did considerable

LETHBRIDGE'S FINE SHOWING IN STOCK

Southern Alberta raised nearly as many hogs during the first three months of 1914 as during the whole of 1913. Actual figures, obtained by Lethbridge, show that during January, February, and March of the present year, the southern portion of this province, with Lethbridge as the center, shipped for slaughter 20,723 hogs, while in 1913, 24,438 comprised the total.

During 1913 this district shipped 107,127 sheep and 25,673 cattle to market, the approximate value of the entire stock shipments for the last year being about $2,900,000.

FREE DISTRIBUTION NEW HOMESTEAD MAP OF WESTERN PROVINCES

The 12th edition of a publication which should prove of interest to every person having the remotest idea of the progress of settlement throughout the province of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta is now being prepared in the form of a "Homestead Map" shows in a graphic way the land situation up to the beginning of the present year. The standing of each quarter section throughout the three prairie provinces, one for each province, the Saskatchewan and Manitoba, is being available for distribution and the additional sheet, covering the province of Alberta, to follow at an early date.

Nothing conveys quite so forcibly to the eye the rapid manner in which land available for entry is being taken up, as this map of many colors, illustrating as it does, by a comparatively simple system of coloring the standing of each quarter section at the beginning of the present year.

In addition to the information regarding lands which have been homesteaded or otherwise disposed of, the publication contains complete information with respect to Indian reserves, timber belts, grazing bases, post offices and railways, throughout the three provinces.

This latest edition of the homestead map is being distributed free of charge to the public. A copy of the Saskatchewan or Manitoba sheet may now be obtained upon application of 12 C. C. Lynch, superintendent of railway lands, Department of the Interior, Ottawa.

SPECIAL TRAIN OF ALBERTA HOGS

No fewer than 3,380 hogs were shipped from Calgary to Seattle and Tacoma. This is the largest single shipment of porkers ever sent from this city into the United States, and represents a money value of $50,700. It required a train composed of 26 cars to carry the animals. Of the shipment 780 were bound for Tacoma and 2,600 for Seattle.

ALBERTA HAS MADE GREAT ADVANCE IN FARM PRODUCTION

Production of Wheat, Oats and Barley in 1913 Six and Half Times as Great as Two Provinces Grew in 1910.

The final crop figures for Alberta winters are cold but not severe, and recently published show the remarkable advance which has taken place in the crop production of the province during the past decade or two. Alberta's output of spring wheat, oats and barley for the past year was six and a half times as great as the combined output of Saskatchewan and Alberta in 1910, and twenty-four times as great as the output for the same crops in the North-West Territories in 1901.

In 1901 there were 113,808 acres of spring wheat in the Northwest territories, and the total output amounted to 1,745,983 bushels; 8,467 acres were sown in oats, yielding 215,600 bushels, and 61,637 acres were sown in barley, yielding 1,628,444 bushels. Ten years later, 529,447 acres of spring wheat were under cultivation, yielding 8,585,602 bushels. The same year 22,932 acres of barley yielded 474,534 bushels, while 20,522 acres of oats yielded 6,616,652 bushels. This is an enormous increase in production, but a better idea of the progress of the province is gained by glancing at approximate figures showing the acreage under cultivation and the production of 1913. In this year in Alberta and Saskatchewan there were 6,268,700 acres of wheat, yielding 124,423,960 bushels. The acreage under oats had increased to 3,644,000 acres, yielding 185,651,000 bushels, while 245,200 acres of barley produced 11,706,000 bushels. In the last twenty years, therefore, we have an increase of 6,184,892 acres in wheat area, while the increased yield amounts to 122,624,917 bushels. The increased acreage in barley amounts to 245,200 acres, while the increased yield for the two years being not less than 11,490,350 bushels. With oats we have a similar enormous increase, the acreage in these twenty years increasing 2,582,200 acres, and the yield being 166,226,656 in advance of 1901.

Increase in Yield Per Acre It is interesting to note that the average yield per acre of these three crops during the last twenty years has increased very considerably. Wheat, for instance, in 1901 yielded 15.7 bushels per acre. Barley yielded in 1901 25.2 bushels, yielding in 1912 over 25 bushels, while oats, yielding 28.4 bushels, increased to 34 bushels in 1912.

Live Stock Increases

The live stock figures are no less gratifying. Hon. Duncan Marshall, minister of agriculture for Alberta, in opening the Calgary Horse Show and Fat Stock Show on April 14th, described in a striking manner the enormous growth of live stock in this province, when he said: "The census of 1901 showed that there were in Alberta some 22,000 horses, whereas in 1913 there were 580,000 horses. The Dominion census of 1901 found 32,000 cattle in the province of Alberta, and a careful estimate made last year gave it that there were over one million cattle in the province." Here in the Middle West is an ideal country for livestock. The

CORN GROWING CAMPAIGN FOR SOUTH ALBERTA

Corn Can Be Successfully Grown in This Province as Well as in Iowa.

Can you imagine a corn campaign in Alberta?

Despite the fact that farmers have known for a long time that corn is not to be recognized as a possible crop in southern Alberta, this part of the world is getting more like Illinois and Iowa every year, and it is the hope of the Rural Relations committee of the Lethbridge board of trade to encourage the growing of corn for cattle purposes.

It is not expected that much will be done this year, as the corn planting season is already well upon us, but just as a means of breaking the trail for another year, the committee has been busy collecting data with the hope that a few farmers may be induced to plant a few acres as an experiment this year.

Corn can be grown successfully in southern Alberta. Tabor district has proven it beyond a doubt, and at the last Tabor Fair some of the finest specimens of fodder as well as fully matured seed were exhibited by farmers in that section. It is the opinion of the committee which has interested itself in this work that the dairy industry in southern Alberta will never be at its best until fodder corn is grown in the soil and siles out the country in production.

CHICAGO PROFESSOR GROWS SUCCESSFUL CROP OF LEMONS

An interesting new crop has just been harvested by Chicago Professor W. J. O'Connell, head farmer at the University of Chicago. This crop is a lemon crop, and Professor O'Connell is very proud of the lemons. They weigh about two pounds each and are twelve inches in circumference. They about four feet in height, planted in a sixteen-inch pot, the plant being about seven years old. One of these lemons is equal to about a dozen of the ordinary kind. Professor O'Connell believes that the plant on which they were produced is capable of bearing fruit continuously for fifty years, and that a greenhouse 30x60 feet it will be possible to produce two or three thousand of these lemons in a year.

SASKATCHEWAN WILL SELL WOOL FOR THE FARMERS OF PROVINCE

To demonstrate the advantages that may be derived from the production of the choicest quality of wool, and to encourage the grain farmers of Saskatchewan to enter the sheep raising industry, the department of agriculture of that province has agreed to undertake the sale of this commodity for the settlers of the province. The department will deduct from the price payable to the sheep grower the cost of twice, socks and other necessities incidental to shipment, including grading and local freight, to Regina, if this is not paid by the producer himself. The actual service given by the department will be free.

The object of the departure taken by the department is in fact primarily the encouragement of the grain farmer who may have a small flock, and who, selling his wool in the ordinary manner, would be compelled to meet many charges which the rancher in a big way eliminates.

Butter Fat Record

May Hima, a Pennsylvania Guernsey cow, has broken the world's record for butter fat. This cow in 345 days gave 16,595 pounds of milk, containing 1,659.59 pounds of butter-fat. The previous record was held by the Ohio Holstein cow, Ransome Belle De Kol, with a yearly record of 27,464 pounds of milk and 1,654.34 pounds of fat or a pound and a quarter less than the Guernsey record.

London, May 9.—London now claims the busiest station in the world—a "four-decker" station—through which 2,560 trains pass each day. This remarkable railroad center was completed a few days ago, and is situated at Charing Cross, adjoining Trafalgar Square, and a point which is generally regarded as the hub of London. Three of the four railroads, which have just been linked up, are underground. The District Railway has for some time past been working the remarkable number of 1,628 trains per day over this section of its service, and deeper

GOLDIE'S TRIPLE HIT AND RUELL'S BATTING, FEATURED YESTERDAY'S "SCRAPPY" GAME WITH MOOSE JAW

Manager Fred Weed and O'Day Banished From Field by Umpire Colgate, Whose Decisions Did Not Please the Millers—Score Was 4-4.—Double Header Today at 3 and 6 o'clock—Two Double Plays Yesterday.

The Eskimos have yet to win their first game. They came within an ace of doing it last night in their game with Moose Jaw, but as it was, they were lucky to tie the score 4-4. The 1,800 fans present got their money's worth, if not in good baseball, then in excitement, caused by the wrangling of players and umpires which finally resulted in Fred Weed, manager of the Millers, and O'Day, being banished from the field by umpire Colgate, as a result of too much "chewing the fat" and sneering and almost insulting remarks.

Were Hits Plenty It was a game replete with hits, both pitchers being found early and often. It was Moose Jaw's game right up until the last of the ninth inning. The score stood in their favor 4 to 2 and it looked as though another loss would be added to an already long enough list, but with one down in the ninth, Goldie went to bat and slammed one to the right, and scored when Ruell hit to third, being the first of the game.

Had His Batting Eye Foot Ruell the Eskimos third sacker had a big day at the plate. Four hits out of five times up, and each of the four, a good honest hit. These singles and a double were his donations for the day. The fun commenced in the first inning, Lorenz, first up for the visitors, was safe when Ruell juggled the ball. Stenton singled and Lorenz went down to second but umpire Colgate called him out, and started much kicking by the Millers, with the result that Manager Fred Weed was asked to witness the game from behind the high board fence. Whisman was given a walk and Jarrett singled to O'Brien, who fumbled, Lorenz scoring, and the bases were full. The Eskimos appeared to be all unstrung by the absence of Weed, and before they settled down, three runs had scored. O'Day singled to Povey, but that player dropped the ball, allowing Whisman and Jarrett to tally. Price was out, Clayton to Nordyke. Three runs for Moose Jaw and three errors for the Eskimos.

Eskimos Score Three The locals were not to be denied, however, and came back with an equal number when their turn came. Povey was hit by ball and Povey drew a pass. Goldie went out on a bunt, but Foot Ruell hit a nice two-bagger scoring Povey and Putter. Nordyke singled, scoring Ruell. Redmond went out when he hit to short, who got Nordyke at second and Redmond at first. It was a good double play. Three runs.

O'Day Put From Game Moose Jaw's fourth run came in the fourth when O'Day started off with a three-bagger to left. Price followed with a single and Augustus tied to Goldie who doubled to second to catch Price, and was successful. O'Day, however, had crossed the plate and Kelly hit out to Ruell. One run. In the Eskimos half of this inning Lorenz was given a walk and stole second and was called safe. The whole Moose Jaw team questioned the decision and O'Day being rather much annoyed by his talk than the others, was sent to join his manager, Weed, on the outside of the grounds.

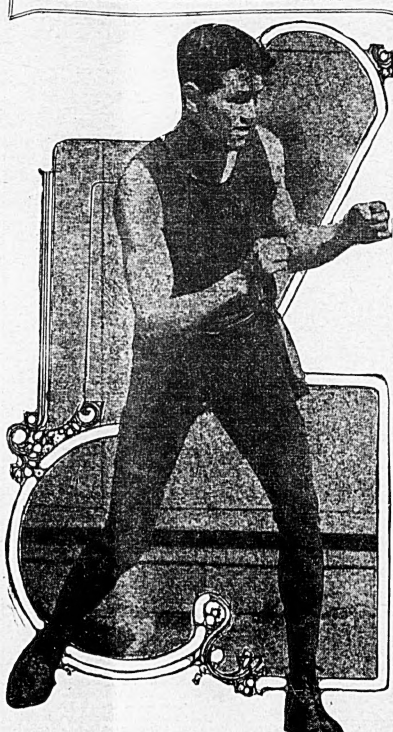

Eskimos Had Chance A pretty one hand catch was made by the Miller's right fielder, Jarrett, when Redmond hit one his way in the fifth. In the first of the sixth, Whisman, first up for the Millers, lined a ball to Clayton, that fairly seized the air and scorched the fingers' fingers. A decision in the seventh, when Lorenz was called out at third, looked close, and the benefit of the doubt might have

CADREAU PITCHES GREAT GAME—QUAKERS DEFEAT BRONKS 2-0

Fred Chick, the Big Noise at Bat, Scored Both Runs for Winners—Harper Fined $10 by Umpire—Quakers Lead the League.

Calgary, May 9.—Fred Chick was the big noise in yesterday's game between the Bronks and Quakers, which was won by the latter by the score of 2 to 0. Chick scored both of the Quakers' runs, a home run in the second and another through Croft's error in the fourth. It was a grand pitcher's battle between chief Cadreau and Seattle's Kesslering. The hits were evenly divided each side getting five and the strike outs honors were also even each twirler getting six. But Cadreau had the better of the battle because of his perfect control. He did not issue a pass, threw wild pitch or hit a batsman during the day. Kesslering walked four, hit two and leaved one wild one. Harper was fined ten dollars by umpire Brecker for discoloring the ball.

Scores:— Quakers 010 100 000 2-0-2 Cadreau and Walters, Kesslering and Ryan.

REGINA DEFEATS MAD HATTERS 6-5

Butteroff Stops Medicine Hat Rally and Grabs Game for Red Sox.

Medicine Hat, May 9.—Hits when hits meant runs gave Regina a 6 to 5 victory over Medicine Hat yesterday in the fourth game of the double series being played here. Ryan and Martin, who started the mound work for their respective clubs Thursday, only to be yanked out were brought back again yesterday. Both were wild, but Martin was most effective except when Regina got on the bases. The score was a close one all the way through, which made the result uncertain and the contest most interesting. Casey Smith, Regina's real Indian shortstop, was hit on the nose with the ball during practice and was out of the game. Ryan was taken out in the last inning and Butteroff stepped in to stop a Medicine Hat rally, which he did.

Score by Innings:— Regina 200 100 420-5 10 1 Medicine Hat 021 010 110-6 7 1 Batteries—Martin and Barth; Ryan, Butteroff and Rinnett.

Investors, Attention!

Subscriptions are invited by the trustee, Geo. Westcott, 506-7 Agency Building, to a syndicate now being formed for the purpose of taking over certain gold-dredging and mining leases in the Yukon and Alaska, and the formation of a Development and Holding Company to operate the same, with a capital of $2,500,000.00.

These leases comprise approximately 24,000 acres in a territory which has been proven to be as rich in gold deposits as the famous Boyle concession, which is in the immediate vicinity.

Our Proposition is This:

In order to secure these leases and form a Development and Holding Company and pay the expenses of placing the stock on the market, an amount of about $10,000.00 will be required. It is proposed to raise this by forming a Syndicate, with 100 shares of $100.00 each, which amount will be refunded to the Syndicate shareholders when a sufficient number of shares in the Development and Holding Company have been sold.

In addition to the return of your investment it is proposed to give each Syndicate shareholder a bonus of 500 shares in the Development and Holding Company.

A conservative estimate places the total dredging yardage on these claims to be 690,000,000 cubic yards, and the net revenue after paying all working expenses, nine cents per yard, or the enormous sum of $62,100,000.00. This may seem like a fairy tale, but the figures are based upon actual results obtained from similar claims in the neighborhood.

For obvious reasons, we are not at liberty to give the exact location of these claims, but they are all on tributaries of the Yukon River.

How you will be Protected:

Your money will be placed in the hands of the Trustee, who is under bond to carry out certain agreements with Col. Bryce, J. Saunders and Lee W. Steele, which agreements are open for your inspection at the office of the Trustee.

Col. Saunders and Lee W. Steele are both mining engineers who have personally inspected and tested the properties to be taken over and are prepared to give first-hand information to all prospective investors.

Finally Remember:

1. You are asked to participate in a syndicate which when formed will sell out to a Development and Holding Company which in turn will give you back the cash invested, together with a bonus of 500-$5.00 fully paid and non-assessable shares.
2. The properties have been tested and proven to be rich in gold.
3. Arrangements have already been made whereby the stock of the Development and Holding Company will be placed on the market.
4. We are prepared to give you the personal testimony of men of unimpeachable character and who are acknowledged experts in gold mining.

All we want is to create interest in this proposition which will induce you to call at the office when every detail and document will be thrown open for your inspection and approval.

A very considerable portion of these Syndicate Shares have already been taken up, and the balance will undoubtedly be disposed of within a few days. It will therefore be imperative if you wish to participate in this golden opportunity to call and investigate without delay.

HOW TO NEUTRALIZE DANGEROUS STOMACH ACIDS

Few people realize the importance of keeping the food contents of the stomach free from acid fermentation. Healthy normal digestion cannot take place while the delicate lining of the stomach is being irritated and disturbed by acid and wind. The result of fermenting food in the stomach. To secure perfect digestion, fermentation must be stopped or prevented and the acid neutralized. For this purpose physicians recommend getting a little bicarbonate of soda from the drugist and taking a tea-spoonful in a little hot or cold water immediately after eating. They recommend bicarbonate of soda because it is pleasant to take, has no disagreeable after-effects and instantly stops fermentation, neutralizes the sour acid, bland, sweet and easily digested.

The regular use of bicarbonate of soda is sure to get you back to normal, as other kinds of magnesia are of little value. It is an absolutely guarantee of healthy normal digestion, for it overcomes and prevents that acid condition which alone is the cause of trouble.

THE ADVENTURES OF KATHLYN

By HAROLD MacGRATH

Synopsis of Previous Chapters

Kathlyn Hare believes her father, Col. Hare, to be in the desert in Allahabad, a principality of India. The King of Allahabad has recently died, and because the king had once saved her life, she has named him as his successor. Unbeknownst to the throne of Allah, she has named Kathlyn and has forced her escape—summoning her to her father, whom he has thrown into prison. She leaves her home in California to go to him.

On her arrival in Allah she is informed by Umbalath that her father is dead and that she is the queen. An elaborate durbar is arranged, the central figure of which is Kathlyn, protesting and grief-stricken. When the crown is placed upon her head Umbalath announces that she is to be married to the king's son. Kathlyn's indignation infuriates him, but as Kathlyn's beauty and spirit have made a strong appeal to the people he yields the point for the time being. A priest announces that no woman may rule; neither is it convenient that the young queen be surrounded with the laws of the state so she will have seven days to decide.

When Kathlyn returns, at the expiration of the week of grace, her refusal to marry Umbalath is received with surprise from the audience, which she has to undergo two ordeals with. As she survives she is permitted to rule without hindrance.

Through the black and resourcefulness of John Bruce, an American and fellow passenger on the boat which brought Kathlyn to Allah, she escapes unharmed from the two ordeals. With Bruce she flees from Allah. The elephant which carries her becomes frightened and runs away, separating her from Bruce and the rest of the party.

After a ride filled with peril she takes refuge in a ruined temple. The holy men and villagers, believing her to be an ancient priestess risen from the tomb, allow her to remain as the guardian of the sacred fire. But Kathlyn's haven is also the abode of a lion, and she is forced to flee from it with the savage beast in pursuit. She escapes and finds a retreat in the jungle, only to fall into the hands of a band of slave traders.

The photo-dramas corresponding to the installments of "The Adventures of Kathlyn" may be seen at the Empress moving picture theater on May 18 and 19. By this unique arrangement with the Selig Polyscope Company it is, therefore, possible not only to read the adventures of Kathlyn in this paper, but also to keep pace with each installment of it at the Empress moving picture theater.

CHAPTER VIII

THE SLAVE MARKET

Having decided upon the fate of Kathlyn, the natives set about preparing for the wild elephant. It took the best part of the morning. The journey to Allah was begun. But for the day of peace and quiet of the wilderness and the consequent hardness of her flesh, Kathlyn would have suffered greatly. Half the time she was compelled to walk. There were no hounds, and it was a difficult feat to sit in the elephant. The rough skin of the elephant had the same effect upon the soles of her feet that sandpaper would have had. Sometimes she stumbled and fell, and was rudely picked up by her feet. Only the day before she had been in the saddle, and now she was on her feet. Only a litter, and in this manner she entered the half-ruined temple.

In climbing her litter the chief mahout had been inspired by no expression of her feet, which he desired to appear fresh and attractive when they carried her into the slave market. In fulfilment of this desire, he had happened came back to her—the story her father had told about saving the old king's life, and the prince's desire to make Kathlyn his bride. As if such things could help. And then her own journey to Allah, the journey of the temple of the sun; the flight from here. "John Bruce!" she could still see the fire in his eyes. He could still feel the touch of his gentle yet tireless hand. Would she ever see him again?

On the way to the market they passed under the shadow of the elephant upon the wall of the palace. The king's feet were off her, into the air. She saw the huge square where horses and cattle and elephants were bought and sold. The litter, in charge of the chief mahout, proceeded to the slave market. Kathlyn glanced at the wall wondering why. Was her wonderer? Was he in some bleak cell behind that crumbling masonry? He did know that she was here? Or would he be dead? Ah, perhaps it was better that death should have taken him—better than this living hell. He was wrong by the tale of his daughter's misadventure.

When she sent a last lingering look at the prison, the prisoner within, his head buried in his thin, wasted hands, he looked in a vision of a happy, joyous vision, buying and selling. Kathlyn's discarded robe and remained determined quiet. Often, standing beyond his evening fire, he would ask the silence, "Kathlyn, where are you?" Then then he was riding fast toward Allah.

A slave market is a rare thing these days, but at the time these scenes were being enacted, there existed a slave market here and there across the face of the globe. Men buy and sell men and women these times—enlightened, not they say—but they do it by legal contract, or from vile hiding places. Allahabad had been a famous mart in its prime. It had drawn the agents of princes from all over India. From Unbeknownst, Afghanistan, and even southern Russia had been seized of their treasures to adorn the coffers of the seditious Hindu prince.

The slave mart in the capital town of Allah stood in the center of the bazaar, a great square platform with a roof, but open on all four sides. Here the slaves were exhibited, the poor slaves intended for domestic and those who were to struggle and sweat and die under the evergreen lash.

Every fortnight a day was set aside for the business of the mart. Owners and prospective buyers came, chewed betel nut, smoked their hookahs, sipped coffee and tea and exchanged the latest news of the hour. It was as much an amusement as a business, indeed, it was the Oriental idea of a club, and much the same things were discussed. Thus, Ajmal, brought a beautiful girl, a girl of the harter area, found that she was a good juggler, and only eight before had they traded. The bazaar was not what they used to be.

It was a good thing that she was not a slave, for she would have been sold for a great price. The old mahout, who was a good juggler, and only eight before had they traded. The bazaar was not what they used to be.

bought her started to lead her home, she would beguile him and at the first sign of carelessness she would trust to her heels. She knew that she was going to run as never a woman ran before; back to the bosom of the jungle, who at least made no effort to molest her so long as she kept out of their way.

Wild and beautiful she was as the old mahout turned her over to a professional seller. "For an hour from paradise! O, ye weak hearts, what is this I hear? Two thousand rupees!—for an hour to dwell in the seraglio of heaven!"

A keen-eyed Mahomedan edged closer to the platform. He stared and sucked in his breath. He found himself pulled two ways. He had no money, but he had knowledge.

"Who sells this maiden?" he asked. "Mahomed Ghori." "Which is he?" "He equals there."

The Mahomedan stooped and touched the old mahout on the shoulder. "Call off this sale, and my master will make you rich."

The old mahout eagerly felt of the speaker's cotton garb. "Ah! My master must be rich to dress in cotton. Where is your goat?" Rid, satirically.

"Two thousand rupees!" shouted the professional seller. "I have no gold but my master will give 10,000 rupees for your maid."

"Be gone, thou beggar!" And the old man spat. "Memash, the Mahomedan called rupees. Bring him to the house of Durga Ham." This in case Allah failed. The Brahmin eyes twinkled. Her Hinduism was excellent, but "sahib" and "river" were plain to his understanding. There was but one sahib, the river, and he was the white hunter, who had rescued the vanished queen from the ordeals. He nodded assent. I will give you five thousand rupees if you will deliver me safely in the house. He knew now that this form had stirred his recollection.

"You!" He laughed and clapped his hands to summon his servants. Kathlyn, realizing that it was useless to attempt to move this man, turned and started to run, but he intercepted her. "My queen, my king, that was to be the golden hour! Five times five thousand rupees would not purchase a hair of your head."

"I am your queen!" But she said without fear. "What! Do you believe that? Having passed the ordeals, you nullified the effect by running away. You will be whatever I choose. Or it will be lovely. You shall go with me to the council, and the four of us shall decide. Ah, you would not be my queen?"

"You shall die, Durga Ham, she replied, and it will be the death of a painful dog."

"Ah! Still that spirit which I loved. Why did I not buy you without knowing you were here? Are you not mine? At this very moment I could place you in my zenana and who would ever have let you go long since. But there, my queen, you would not want anyone to know."

"Are you without mercy?" "Mercy? I know not the word. But I have an ambition which surpasses all other things. My wife you shall be, a fat woman, stout and healthy. He laughed again and swiftly caught her in his arms. She struggled like a wild cat, but without avail. He covered her face and neck with kisses, then thrust her aside. "Poor little fool! If she had whined and whimpered I should have let you go long since. But there, my queen, you would not want anyone to know."

"I will not!" "Then be carried," he replied beckoning to his servants. "Ah! Well, then, well, ride together in the pahnghun."

To struggle would reward her with nothing but shame and humiliation; so she bent her head to the inevitable. A passionate look to be revenged upon this man began to consume her. She wanted the feel of his brown throat. But she was a woman and she had no time to lose. She was carried away. "Behold!" cried Umbalath later, as he entered the presence of the council.

"Behold a slave of mine!" He pushed Kathlyn forward. "This day I bought her for 5,000 rupees." "The council still nervously. "Do you not recognize her?" exultantly. "The council whispered to one another. "Legally she is mine, though she has been queen. But with a look at her she has forfeited her rights to the law of the ordeals. Am I not right?"
